

Name:

Date:

Scents and Sensibilities

Today we have learned that the banded mongoose can use its sense of smell to recognise its family and group members. This can help these animals to survive by making sure they do not lose their group or bump into strangers. Smell also helps the banded mongoose find food.

What senses do you think are important to these animals and why?

Animal	Important Senses	Why?

Association for the Study of Animal Behaviour